In 2010, Boehringer Ingelheim Japan was nominated as one of the top ten companies in Japan for “The Great Place To Work.” Aspire Communications’ staff and services were one of the success factors for this award.

In essence, I can say that Aspire Communications always “Exceeds Expectations”, not only at the stage of planning but also in the stages of implementation and after-service.

Head of Human Resources, Boehringer Ingelheim Japan

As a result of our investment with Aspire, my team’s influence within the organization has grown dramatically. We have developed relationships with leaders all across the globe as we work together to ensure that communication and teamwork are truly the cornerstones of our transition. We are no longer administering HR programs, but rather helping employees to better perform. Aspire was very much at the heart of our success and I couldn’t recommend them strongly enough.
